

The term built environment refers to the human-made surroundings that provide the setting for human activity, ranging in scale from buildings and parks or green space to neighborhoods and cities that can often include their supporting infrastructure, such as water supply, or energy networks. The built environment is a material, spatial and cultural product of human labor that combines physical elements and energy in forms for living, working and playing. It has been defined as “the human-made space in which people live, work, and recreate on a day-to-day basis”. The traditional built environment encompasses places and spaces created or modified by people including buildings, parks, and transportation systems. The U.S. taxation system using a system of religious beliefs in codes, and our religious devotion to duty or religious zeal has made this kind of environment possible America. In Taxology’s format is a religious source code for the built environment of organized religion. It has been Taxology’s source code that has created our U.S. Values, Wealth & its organized religions establishing the Built Environment of THEIR.

The Built Environments of THE-IRS

The Atmospheres, Pressures & Sacred Spaces of U.S. Values

A Contemporary View of a Built Environment

The things we look at and the places we have entered can shape of our beliefs and practices. It is a material fact that the atmospheres, pressures and scared spaces of U.S. values are established “by supporting the standards of behavior required by the Internal Revenue Code.”

Often these surroundings or special environments can produce a religious experience for many people. We live in a world which has many atmospheres, existing under various pressures and often these experiences have & continue to produce or protect sacred spaces. Plaintiff [believes] the human mind is a “sacred place” with the human heart (emotions) is our “sacred space” found within us all.

These sacred spaces are protected by the safe harbors of a Nation of laws; anchored by a provision of a statute or a regulation that specifies that certain conduct will be deemed not to violate a given rule. Nevertheless, the chains to these anchors are not of the transforming elements of enslavement, rather the permanent elements of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. Our safe harbors are based on station, where the bed of a body of clear water exist... we call reason; not in the bed of a body of sacred water of law respecting an establishment of religion.

*The Plaintiff's knows these sacred spaces embrace an encoded world through a source code of our own choosing or making. Since a Source Code is the only format that is readable by humans; Plaintiff chose “reason” (Christ) as a source code, not the religion and source code of Taxology. Our U.S. Values & its wealth should be within the realm of reason and not the realms of a religion. The purpose of our life, liberty and pursuit of happiness was never based on or within the “Purpose of Penalties” of THEIRS or the power and influence of self-assessment by supporting the standards of behavior required by the Internal Revenue Code.

Plaintiff challenges the constitutionality of Defendants' activities in proselytizing a taxing environment, culture or its realm into the described formations, implements, atmospheres and sacred places of religious indoctrination, creating religion, not reason, inter alia, proselytism; by Defendants' endorsing and practicing law respecting an establishment of religion.
